With the Lord John Dunlap Board of Trustees

December, 1990

Dear Friend:

John Dunlap is alive forevermore! For six months he had been dying. Really, for sixty years, I guess you could say. But those last six months—the doctor said there could be no greater physical pain.

And now a Ray said it wasn't for how could God be trusted if one who served Him so faithfully was rewarded at last with an agonizing death-watch? But, my friend, John's suffering was not his reward. It was his final exam. God honored him with a tough final. And he passed it. Unlike many, he finished well.

So on October 4 we gathered in the gym of Norfolk Christian High School to celebrate his commencement. Death was not the curtain on the final act of a tragedy, but the completion of an audition, the curtain rising on real life—forever.

Cancer killed him, yet by his faith he still speaks to us today. What is he saying? I've been listening carefully through recent months. My friend paid a high tuition for me to learn. I want to learn well. John was a Board member at CEC for 16 years, a fine preacher and a mighty doer. But the greatest sermon he ever preached was the last six months of his life.

As C.S. Lewis said, pain is God's megaphone. John Dunlap heard God. When I visited him in May, he told me:

"You know, Robertson, I'm not very spiritual. Gene talks about longing to be in heaven. But I love life. I have so much I want to do."

But when I visited him two months later, he didn't wait till I was seated in the hospital room.

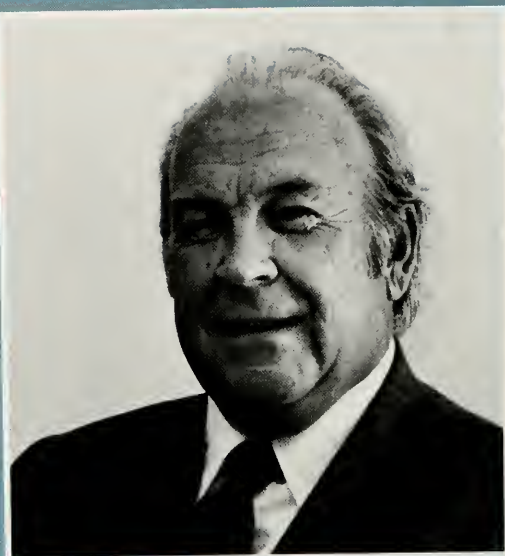

"Robertson," he burst out, "I want to tell you something about death—it takes too long." He paused, then continued, "you probably have some theological explanation . . . but I don't."

"No, John, not really," I said, my mind probing for some ray of light. "But I do notice that you're homesick for heaven."

God designed the beauty and strength of youth to be physical, but the beauty and strength of age to be of the spirit. Yet so many cling to the one and in the end lose both. God faithfully, painfully, drew the real, eternal John Dunlap from clinging to the shell he was so strong and happy in.

The path of the righteous is not leading to sunset and the darkness of the tomb, but, as the Psalmist says, it is as a drawing light that grows brighter and brighter until full daybreak. God got his attention. John was glad to go. He got our attention, too. Though we miss John Dunlap sorely, we pray often for his release—a prayer we never would have dreamed six months before.

Pain is not only God's megaphone to make us listen, it is God's fire to purify. We didn't know all that was in John, but God knew he would pass the test. We knew he was courageous. But even athletes have been known to die courageously. Yet how we were filled with grateful awe to watch the gold of quiet patience and gentle thoughtfulness emerge from the fire. He never asked to be healed and instead of asking for release, just before he slipped into the last coma, he struggled to form the words of a whispered prayer: "Father, your blessed will be done." Many of us will never be the same for what we have seen of faith in the fire.

His physician, young in the faith, told his family: "I always thought a Christian should be like this. I just never have seen it."

As John Dunlap has joined the ranks of the witnesses we must remember him, follow his faith and run to win.

But he would scold me, "Robertson," he would say, "stop talking about me. It isn't the faith, it's the object of that faith—look away to Jesus." And so we shall. With gratitude. For Life. And for death.

Grace and peace.

J. Robertson Macgillikin
President
